Bo Reudler for JSPP
Sketch

Organic lines meet tubular steel furniture in Sketch by Bo Reudler. The form of tubular steel furniture has remained largely unchanged since it was pioneered in the 1920s and 1930s. As an icon of Modernism, tubular steel furniture is rational, industrial, uniform. But what if the steel tubes could somehow break free of this mould? With this collection we wanted to introduce playfulness and spontaneity to tubular steel furniture without compromising on functionality and comfort. As if sketched in steel, the seat and back rest are made in a way that allows for randomness, which means each piece of furniture is unique.
